

The image shows a screenshot of a complex spreadsheet application. The top of the window features a prominent green header bar containing various icons for file operations (such as save, print, and undo) and window management. Below the header, the spreadsheet grid is filled with data. The data is organized into several distinct sections, likely representing different categories or time periods. These sections are separated by vertical and horizontal lines, and some cells contain text labels or formulas. The overall layout is dense and structured, typical of a financial or operational reporting tool. The spreadsheet content is too small to read in detail, but it clearly shows a multi-column and multi-row data structure.

Small text at the bottom left corner, likely a footer or version information.

